Cathy Elliott enjoys people, and her new vocation allows her to continue to enjoy people at a happy and hopeful time of their lives—their wedding.

With the goal of personalizing something already special, Cathy will make your day even more exceptional by including whatever significant aspects you wish to incorporate. Whether it be the setting, the ceremony, the vows, the readings or distinctive guests—pets are welcome—the wedding will always be remembered as uniquely yours, a reflection of what is important to you.

Cathy will meet with you in advance to discuss options and preferences—would you like a sand ceremony, unity candles, a formal, traditional or contemporary event? Rather than the wedding controlling the happy couple, the happy couple will be in charge. The flexibility inherent in having a Marriage Commissioner officiate at your nuptials means this wonderful event can be simple or elaborate, indoors or outdoors, in the afternoon or the evening. Whatever works for you, works for Cathy.

Let her assist in achieving your vision of your marriage. As you commit to each other, the day should unfold as you'd always dreamed it would. Cathy Elliott believes this—and will help to make it happen.
